Why this pack exists

Many students want income but start with no skill and no plan. This pack helps you choose a realistic hustle, build one service people actually pay for, price it, find your first five clients and avoid the scams that target young freelancers.

This is a student-written study companion, not a reproduced lecture handout or a leaked examination paper. Use it to organise the topics you are taught, practise the kind of thinking your course rewards, and walk into class with better questions.

What you will be able to do

- Choose a side hustle that fits your skills, timetable and capital.
- Package one clear service and price it with a simple method.
- Find and convert your first clients without spamming.
- Protect yourself with deposits, written scope and clear delivery terms.

How to use this pack

1. Skim the whole pack once in 20 minutes so you know what is inside.
2. Work through one section at a time with your lecture note and recommended text beside you.
3. Attempt the practice questions before reading the answers. Mark what you missed.
4. Use the final checklist to plan your revision week, one tick per study session.

> Confirm your official course outline
> Course codes, credit units and outlines can differ by department and session. Treat this pack as supplementary support and confirm the current outline with your lecturer, course rep or departmental handbook before an assessment.

Pick a realistic hustle

Match the hustle to your time, capital and existing skill.

- Service hustles need time and skill, not capital: writing, design, tutoring, virtual assistance, transcription, social media management.
- Product hustles need capital and storage: reselling, food, print and design.
- Skill-based hustles pay more over time because the skill compounds.
- Avoid anything requiring upfront payment to 'unlock' jobs.
- Avoid gambling, betting syndicates and get-rich-quick schemes presented as business.
- Choose one and give it ninety days before judging it.

Package and price

Clients buy outcomes, not effort.

- Describe the service as a deliverable: 'a 1,500-word SEO article with five sources'.
- Set a minimum price rather than charging by hour at the start.
- Calculate your cost of delivery: data, transport, software, time.
- Charge a deposit for custom work, especially with new clients.
- Raise your price when demand exceeds your capacity, not when you feel brave.
- Put scope, revisions and deadline in writing for every job.

> Cheap clients are expensive
> A client who argues about a fair price before hiring usually argues about everything after delivery.

Find clients and get paid safely

Your first clients are usually closer than you think.

- Start with people who already know your work: classmates, departments, small businesses nearby.
- Build a simple portfolio of three samples, even if self-initiated.
- Use a clear profile and one platform consistently.
- Send specific messages referencing the client's actual need.
- Receive payment before delivering final files, or split into deposit and balance.
- Keep records of income and be transparent about it.
